

2022 MAAPP RECAP— WHAT YOU NEED TO KNOW

We've put together this podcast series for adult athletes, coaches, administrators, and parents. Think of this as your MAAPP recap.

We'll help you understand your role and give practical tips for implementing MAAPP policies. It's also easy to share with your stakeholders as one convenient package!

Just place this exact copy and links on your website, in newsletters, and any other communications channels to aid your organization's MAAPP compliance.

NAVIGATING THE MAAPP: BECOMING AN ATHLETE ADVOCATE

MAAPP FAQs — Listen now

Who should be locker room monitors? How should we handle team text messages? Cynthia Mejia, Training Manager at the U.S. Center for SafeSport, answers the most asked questions from MAAPP trainings.

The Role Adult Athletes Play in Preventing & Responding to Abuse — Listen now

Equestrian athlete Erin Zimmermann-White discusses why it is important for adult athletes to understand MAAPP policies. Hear about her experiences growing up in the riding community, and why it takes the whole community to create a culture of accountability.

Coaches and the MAAPP — Listen now

USA Table Tennis High Performance Director Sean O'Neill describes tactics he has used to introduce and implement the MAAPP to create safe and positive sport environments for youth athletes.

Communicating MAAPP Requirements as a Parent — Listen now

Parent Tammy Foster-Johnson talks about how parents and coaches need to keep open lines of communication to foster safe sport environments, and why it's important to include youth voices in the process.

Remember to Save and Share!

- » Bookmark this page to come back and listen later.
- » Share this to help others learn about the MAAPP.